Brainstorm Venture Ideas

You can use this chart to record your Venture Team's ideas for the questions on the previous page. Then, think creatively about ways that you can connect your ideas in order to form a Venture Team. For example, maybe you are interested in the outdoors, know how to cook over a fire, see many students with nothing to do on the weekends in your community, and want to work with the elderly. One possible way to combine these ideas would be a camping group that brings together students and the elderly for weekend trips. The second half of the chart offers more examples of how you might combine your interests and skills with different groups of people and problems in your community in order to start a Venture.

Interests and passions	Skills	Problems	Groups	Potential Venture
skateboarding plays fashion dogs	cooking karate writing talking with people	racism teen pregnancy bad cafeteria food no art classes	school workers new immigrants young mothers students	A theater group that works with new immigrants to write and produce plays about racism.
