United Arts Society

We are told that talent creates its own opportunities. But it sometimes seems that intense desire creates not only its own opportunities, but its own talents"

weekly noise

In today's fast changing world, art as an entity is trying to find its voice. It has still not received the complete thrust that it needs to make a change in all our lives. There is a dire need to support the spread of art so that it helps the society as a whole. This spread of art can be made to happen in two ways, either by taking art to the people or when people strive towards it themselves. A great time to start educating people in art is when they are young and a great place to start it is when they are in schools. This aspect needs to be addressed. Art is not made as integral a part of a child's curriculum as much as other subjects like science. Though art itself can be practiced after school hours, that doesn't warrant a second hand treatment to it.

This week at UAS we had a free theatre workshop conducted for the children of Presidency School, R T Nagar which has been identified recently to be another center for UAS activities. The workshop was conducted by the Actor-director Pawan who is very famous among theatre circles around Bangalore and Mumbai. The kids enjoyed a lot with Pawan and had a blast with the introduction session. For most of them UAS was just what they'd heard about or read about, but that gets reinforced when we give them an introduction to us and hence read below.

First Touch

We felt that before we kick off a new center with our activities, we should give them a feel of what UAS is and what we can deliver. Under this initiative, a free workshop will be taken for a bunch of children at each particular center before we have a regular workshop on all the art forms beginning there. The fields that we cover under First-Touch are art, theatre, fashion and cinema, which cover the entire spectrum from the horizon. This is done with the intention of setting a standard for the children to get a first hand experience of being with UAS, and to get a feel of what we offer in a full day program filled with fun and excitement.

As we go forward, we shall also be conducting a free workshop at the "Time-Out", a Restaurant-café near CFD, which is soon going to become a new center for UAS activities. Time Out is located in the heart of the city and will be in a hubbub of activity once we set up shop there. With centers budding all across the city, art for everyone will be within reach. Time out promises to offer a different kind of experience rather than a school or classroom environment which we have in our centers so far.
